SiteComments:

What appears to be a continuation of VLVL 26 and 27 is a large, low to medium-density scatter of Enon derived cobbles and pebbles. It is likely that this scatter of some 3500 m2 is an exposure of eroded Enon conglomerates that was used as a source or quarry of raw material for artefact manufacture. Most stone artefacts are MSA in origin, though some pieces may be of LSA and ESA age.

StoneArtefactNotes:

Includes hammer stones, cores, flakes and at least two retouched stone artefacts.
