Site Category: Cultural Landscape

SiteComments:

Site LSF-S2 constitutes a part of the earlier Colonial Period farming landscape. The site comprises of 2 rows of vegetation running approximately 70m apart parallel in a rough north-east to south west direction for more or less 160m. The eastern line of vegetation comprise primarily of Eucalyptus trees while 'garingboom' (Agave Americana) clusters characterize the western rough alignment of vegetation. It is inferred that the vegetation were planted as wind breaks and perhaps used as small livestock enclosures. Cultural landscapes are formally protected by the NHRA 1999.
