Site Category: Structures

SiteComments:

The site comprises of an old farmstead, with structures in a fair state of conservation, including a dairy, the original homestead situated immediately next to the dairy and a large stone built stock enclosure . An additional, smaller stone built stock enclosure is situated just south of the site. The additional stock enclosure is at present formally fenced. The exact date of construction of the site is not known, but it can reasonably be inferred that the structures date at minimum to the early 1900's; the site pre-dating 60 years of age
