Site Category: Stone walling

SiteComments:

This is the location of a Late Iron Age stone walled settlement conforming to Hall's (1985) valley floor layout mode. The site consists of at least six stone walled enclosures of varying sizes. The site is highly overgrown with dense shrubs. A dirtroad cuts through the site between the stone walling exposing a concentration of undecorated ceramics. The site encompasses an area of approximately 150 meters north-south.
