Archive Import History: This railway station is an important feature of the railway line from Pretoria to Delagoa Bay, which was constructed between 1890 and 1894 by the well-known "Nederlandsche Zuid-Afrikaansche Spoorwegmaatschappij". The station was probably built in 1894 and was the only refreshment post on the route. The stepped gables are particularly noteworthy and are a reminder of the important Dutch contribution to the Eastern line, as it was known.
