Archive Import History: Visual Description: Four-bay house (probably an extended three-bay cottage) with saddle-roof covering end-gables. Verandah with concave roof on facebrick pillars and straight facebrick walls. Six-panelled door and a fanlight with small and large rectangular panes. Two bay windows and a modern window under the verandah. According to the owner, the house is 119 years old but has been renovated and changed a few times (which is obvious from the appearance) and most of the houses in th street are old but have been rebuilt or altered. This house has been spolit but is still of local architectural value.
