The site comprises a historic farmhouse complex consisting of the following aspects: A historical multi-room dressed stone house; Associated outbuildings (possibly horse stables) The main farmhouse is constructed with dressed sandstone and probably dated to the late 19th century. Note that the roof, windows, doors and all the fittings have been removed. Additional structures were also noted on the yard, one of which probably functioned as a horse stable. Although not specifically located there seems to be several areas of midden deposit around the farm yard.
