

dhs architecture

| concrete tiles on existingisses to be altered for newiroom, all to engineer'sd roof specialisttionsin flexible fibreglassa layer and 30mm Isoboardto walls and ceilinger stair to Loft Bedroom@ 193mm each@ 250mm eachitimber handrail to complyS10400 Part D4.2 | 2,0m wide building line | site boundary |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------|
| driveway                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                         |               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                         |               |