Instead of bringing out a large compiled supplement - in which our smaller towns sometimes get lost -, the Gembok will now focus on a town every month. This means each town gets its own appendix. We offer local businesses from each town the opportunity to support and market their town, by purchasing a special rate advertisement. These advertisements create the opportunity and page space for us to offer tourism information and attractions of your town with prospective tourists from all over the country. Although many of our readers still prefer the print media, our readers can also reach us online (www.gembok.co.za) and on social media (gembok newspaper).

In fact, Gembok not only brings your business to the homes of 88,200 readers, but also introduces you to more than 27,000 Facebook 'likes' and around 33,000 followers - On Facebook, the Gembok reaches just under 474,523 generic online users per week! Unlike many online newspapers, the Gembok does not buy followers and every visitor to our page and every "hit" on our posts is the real MacKoy. We plan to make use of our digital platform - to offer as much attention as possible to your business' ad tension. Our interactive handbook takes readers directly to your website or social media
