Woodstock family go head-to-head with City

CHEVON BOOYSEN
chevon.booyesen@inl.co.za

IN A David and Goliath battle, a Woodstock family have launched a constitutional challenge against the City for wanting to issue them with emergency housing kits as they face eviction from premises they have called home for 25 years.

The family are being represented by Urban Land Justice and advocacy NPO Ndifuna Ukwazi Law Centre (NU), which said the building was sold to a private developer.

In the application, the family are asking the court to declare the policy of issuing emergency housing materials without access to land unconstitutional and to direct the City, in collaboration with national and provincial governments, to investigate using vacant publicly owned buildings and land for emergency housing.

According to the NPO, since 1998 the family's now deceased father had been the caretaker of the building, where he oversaw maintenance and security, and in exchange for his work he did not receive a salary but was granted permission by the previous owners to live on the property with his family.

NU said: "Because all the family members have low incomes and have no other housing alternatives, the City is constitutionally obliged to provide emergency accommodation in terms of the Emergency Housing Programme. The City is notoriously known for creating relocation camps in places like Wolwerivier, Blikkiesdorp and Kampies for evictees.

"The City has, however, revealed that all emergency accommodation is full and the only emergency support it can offer is building material, whereby the family have to find a willing landowner who will allow them to construct a shelter."

Asked about the litigation, the City said: "The matter is currently pending before the Western Cape High Court, and as such the City of Cape Town will comment in more detail at a later stage. To note, the City's offer of an emergency housing kit was followed by an offer from the owner of the unlawfully occupied building of either R100 000 or six months alternative accommodation in a different building in Woodstock. These offers have been rejected by the occupants."

The family's attorney, Jonty Cogger, said it was the state's duty to prevent homelessness.

"We find the notion that evictees should fend for themselves in an emergency, by finding alternative private accommodation, the very antithesis of the state's housing obligations. The essence of the state's role in eviction crises is to step in and prevent homelessness. The fact that the City has shifted the onus back on to evictees truly shows that it is out of touch with the housing crisis and the impact of gentrification on the working poor," said Cogger.

NU political organiser Buhle Boo said: "Shifting the burden of alternative accommodation back on to evictees perpetuates the notion that the state does not have land to accommodate the poor. Through our research we have ascertained that the state has a vast property portfolio of vacant and underutilised land. Land ultimately should be for the people – it should be utilised for its social value."

Safa vows to beef up security after two coaches killed in Khayelitsha

okhule.hlati@inl.co.za

INCREASED security measures will be put in place during football games after two coaches were shot and killed in Khayelitsha.

Former Chippa United and Royal AM head coach Mike Lukhubene and another coach yet to be identified were shot dead at about 5.50pm at the Site C Sports Complex.

Police spokesperson Wesley Twigg said Lingeletu West police registered two counts of murder following a shooting incident at a soccer stadium.

He said two men, aged 37 and 46, were shot dead.

"According to reports the victims were approached by unknown gunmen who shot them. They sustained gunshot wounds to their heads and were declared deceased on the scene by paramedics," said Twigg.

He said the motive for the attack had yet to be determined and the suspects who had fled were yet to be arrested.

Safa Cape Town president Bennett Bailey said the sporting fraternity were in shock after two officials were attacked after the Coc-Cola Cup tournament. The game was between Hot Spurs from Nyanga and Tottenham Hotspur FC from Manenberg.

"It is important to note that when the incident happened the game was over. Most of the officials had already left the facility. Our heartfelt condolences to the two families. Not only is the incident regrettable, but unfortunately it happened at the sports field. We have gone this far as Safa Cape Town to take the Coke Cup games to outlying areas with the objective of wanting to make sure football is being played at the highest level at all facilities.

MIKE LUKHUBENE.

"Then this happened. We are going to double up our security, especially when it comes to Coke Cup games.

"We are doubling up safety and security so that executives are encouraged to be present because some were there during this incident," said Bailey.

He said they were planning to meet with the police and other law enforcement authorities.

Police Oversight and Community Safety MEC Reagen Allen said: "We cannot have this type of crime occurring on sports fields, let alone anywhere in any of our communities. We urge people to please report these perpetrators to the police so that they can be swiftly arrested."

Police probe Gugs health care centre robbery

athandile.siy@inl.co.za

THE four armed men captured in a video footage robbing security guards at the Gugulethu Community Health Centre pretended to be seeking medical attention to gain access.

Gugulethu police members responded to a complaint of a robbery on the corners of NY79 and NY3 around 3.10am yesterday.

In video footage of the incident, two people, one in a wheelchair and the other pushing him, gained access to the premises by impersonating patients seeking health care.

As soon as security guards opened the gate, they pulled out their guns and held them up.

Provincial health department spokesperson, Monique Johnstone, said: "Two more robbers then entered the premises. The four criminals then proceeded to rob the security guards. Soon afterwards, they left and thankfully did not reach the trauma unit where the staff and patients were.

"No one was hurt physically. However, the trauma such actions leave on the victims is long-lasting. Everyone at the facility has been offered counselling and will continue to be supported in their emotional recovery."

Police spokesperson Joseph Swart-boo said the suspects fled and are yet to be arrested.

A Gugulethu resident, who asked to remain anonymous for fear of victimisation, said: "These incidents are disgraceful. They rob the very same institutions that they will need tomorrow."

Health MEC Nomafrench Mbombo condemned the incident.

"Our health facilities are essential assets to our communities, where residents can seek proper health care in a safe environment. These actions not only undermine our facilities' ability to function but also place our staff and patients' lives in danger. I hope that the SAPS prioritises this case and ensures that the perpetrators face the full consequences of the law," she said.

Anyone with information on the incident can anonymously contact Crime Stop at 08600 10111, or SMS Crime Line to 32211, or use the mobile My SAPS app.

Informal traders raise troubles at summit

okhule.hlati@inl.co.za

THE 2023 Informal Sector Summit and Expo concluded with commitments and many concerns for informal traders who seek lasting solutions to safety, transport, storage space and out of touch policies.

Business associations and informal traders from different communities braved the wet and cold weather yesterday to attend the engagements in hopes of receiving answers to their daily struggles.

South African Informal Traders' Alliance president, Rosheda Muller said the summit offered the City a chance, not only to hear their challenges, but also to support their visions and proposals.

"In the past we always walked away with the fact that it was a talk-shop, however, the most important action that was implemented after last year's summit was that we would have regular area management committee meetings and that happened. However, the meetings were not that fruitful for an example we used to operate by the DHL Stadium and were evicted when it was built and promised to be returned.

"About 12 years later we are still talking about the same issue. There is also an issue with infrastructure including storage for traders, safety, toilets and dignified places to trade. Although the City says it's here for us and wants to work with us we don't really feel the partnership on the ground. So we are waiting with bated breath for the implementation of our needs that we presented today," said Muller.

A Khayelitsha trader who sells vetkoek and asked not to be named for fear of safety, said different sectors also need to work together and tackle extortion.

She also requested the City to make it easy to access tenders by training and deploying officials to educate them, especially the elderly.

Philippi Development Forums' Bukelwa Sonamzi, who is also the owner of Women Healing Space which operates around Crossroads in Nyanga said: "There is a very big disconnect between the policies and by-laws. The policies introduced may be working for the City but not for the people on the ground. That is why we have so many challenges, for example when one goes to City offices an official will tell you that if you have problems with services go to sub-council or refer you to the by-laws. Also the City is not holding sub-councils accountable. We are also not treated the same in different communities which also creates conflicts."

Mayco member for economic growth James Vos said among the programmes they have launched was an Index which will track ten critical indicators of business-facing services, with a special focus on enabling greater infrastructure investment and economic growth in Cape Town.

"The indicators include electricity and water connections, building plan approvals, and informal trading permits.

"We are on a journey of culture change in the City to make our government much more efficient, responsive and digitally accessible. The Economic Growth Directorate is planning on spending around R100m on capital works on the City's strategic economic assets and informal trading infrastructure.

"This means funding more capacity building, streamlining trader-facing services such as our e-permitting system, and growing a pipeline of infrastructure projects," he said.

Executive director of Enterprise and Investment in the Economic Growth Directorate Lance Greyling said they noted all concerns and requested patience while trying to address them.

Bakkie deur vloedwater meegesleur

Berig: Mariaan Smuts

Foto's: Paul Wynand

WUPPERTHAL: Die bestuurder van 'n bakkie van Nuweplaas, een van die buiteposte van Wupperthal, was Donderdag, 8 Junie, net voor 08:00 op pad werk toe in Wupperthal, toe die voertuig deur die Vissersrivier van die oorgang gespoel is. Die rivier loop net buite Nuweplaas en wanneer dit swaar reën kom die rivier vinnig af, maar volgens die inwoners sak die water gewoonlik net so vinnig. Dit lei egter soms tot groot ontwrigting vir die inwoners omdat hulle dan van die ander buiteposte afgesny is.

Daar was Donderdagoggend blykbaar vier persone agter in die bakkie en twee het voorin gesit. Die bestuurder het deur die rivier gery, maar is op die ou brug se oorgang van die pad gedruk deur die stroom water. Die insittendes moes inderhaas uitspring na veiligheid. Een persoon is deur die water meegesleur, maar kon verder stroomaf na veiligheid swem. Die ander passasiers kon by 'n ou pilaar van die brug wat 'n paar jaar tevore weggespoel het, net langs die bakkie uitklim en daar sit. 'n Trekker het ingegaan om die persone na veiligheid te bring. Omstanders het gedink die trekkerbestuurder waag baie om dit te doen, maar alles het goed verloop. Almal was ongedeerd. Donderdag om 15:00 was die bakkie steeds onder water. Die rivier het al voller geword en dit was nie moontlik om die bakkie uit te sleep nie. Vrydag, 9 Junie, het die water so gesak dat hulle die bakkie kon uitsleep. Die bakwerk het nie te veel skade nie, maar daar is meganiese skade. Die rivier was weer Maandag, 12 Junie vol na die reën wat oor die naweek geval het.

Inwoners van die naaste buiteposte aan Wupperthal, Langbome, kan ook nie met hul voertuie van die dorp tot by hulle huise kom nie. Die Tra-Trarivier loop langs Wupperthal verby en Langbome se inwoners parkeer gewoonlik hul voertuie voor die rivier. Hulle kan met 'n voetbrug oorstap tot by hulle huise, maar indien die rivier so sterk afkom, moet hulle ook die laaste stukkie deur die rivier stap.

Nuweplaas se inwoners ry deur Prinsekraal, Beukeskraal en dan met 'n ompad verby Langbome om in die dorp te kom. Alhoewel Nuweplaas net sowat 15 km van Wupperthal is, neem dit ongeveer 30 minute om die pad te ry.

Passasiers van die bakkie sit op 'n pilaar van die ou brug langs die bakkie.

Die bakkie is onder water.

VREDENDAL-NOORD: Die eienaar van Addi's Tuckshop in Vredendal-Noord het op Saterdag omstreeks 02:00 salig in droomland verkeer onbewus daarvan dat hy besteel word.

Die buitelandse burger woon op die perseel van sy winkel en was vas aan die slaap terwyl drie persone sy winkel se voordeur oopforsier het. Hulle het doodluiters die winkel binnegegaan en soveel as moontlik items geneem. Ongelukkig vir die booswigte het 'n verbyganger gesien die voordeur en hekke staan oop. Hy het die eienaar gaan wakker maak. Die drie skelms het teen daardie tyd laat spaander. Hulle het onder andere sigarette en bokse melk gesteel.

Die waarde van die eiendom beloop ongeveer R5490.

Die SAPD versoek dat indien enige iemand inligting het, hulle dadelik die SAPD moet kontak.

UNLEASH THE FUN: HOW TO TEACH YOUR DOG TO WALK CALMLY ON A LEASH

Teaching your dog to walk on a leash is an investment in their safety and well-being. By following these guidelines and employing positive reinforcement techniques, you can transform your dog's leash-walking experience from a struggle to a joyous adventure. Remember to be patient, celebrate progress, and enjoy the time spent with your canine companion as you embark on this rewarding journey together.

1 Introduce the Leash Gradually: Begin by allowing your dog to become comfortable with the leash and collar or harness. Let them sniff and explore the leash in a controlled environment, rewarding them with treats and praise for positive interactions. This helps your dog associate the leash with positive experiences and reduces any potential anxiety or resistance.

2 Proper Equipment: Choosing the right leash and collar/harness is crucial. Opt for a sturdy leash that is comfortable to hold and appropriate for your dog's size and strength. Collars should fit snugly but not too tightly, while harnesses provide additional control and are ideal for dogs prone to pulling.

3 Positive Reinforcement: Positive reinforcement is key to successful leash training. Reward your dog with treats, praise, and affection for desired behaviours such as walking calmly by your side. Use a verbal marker like "yes!" to signify the exact moment your dog exhibits the desired behaviour, followed by an immediate reward. Consistency and timing are essential in reinforcing the connection between the behaviour and the reward.

4 Consistency and Progression: Consistency is vital when teaching your dog to walk on a leash. Set aside dedicated time for leash training each day, gradually increasing the duration and complexity of the walks. Introduce distractions gradually, starting with low-stimulus environments and gradually progressing to busier areas. Remember to remain patient and reinforce positive behaviour throughout the training process.

5 Seek Professional Help if Needed: If you encounter persistent challenges during leash training, don't hesitate to seek the assistance of a "force free" qualified professional

City seeking tenders for new fleet of cleaner-energy buses

Another aim was to link the rail, bus, MyCiTi, and even the minibus taxi services to a single ticketing system so that commuters could use one card for all public transport services, and a tender process for that was under way, he said.

Europe had no idea what it was like dealing with the problems posed by the minibus taxi industry, and the managing director of Lagos's transport authority, Abimbola Akinajo, whom Mr Quintas said was "militant" about minibus operators in the Nigerian city, had been astounded that Cape Town spent so much effort negotiating with the taxi industry.

Mr Quintas said he had also been met with wide-eyed looks when he had described how he and his bodyguards had been caught up in a shootout during an attempted hijacking last month.

Mr Quintas said two Cape Town taxi bosses had been killed during the week he had been away.

And before that, on Thursday May 4, popular taxi boss Charmaine Bailey, 53, who had been in the taxi industry for about a decade, had been gunned down after attending a Wynberg Taxi Association meeting.

Clean-up volunteers hit the beach for World Ocean Day

KAREN WATKINS
KAREN.WATKINS@ACM.CO.ZA

Volunteers from around the city cleared plastic, stompies and other litter from Hout Bay Beach for World Ocean Day, on Thursday June 8.

The event was organised by Cape Town Beach Cleanup, a non-profit organisation that holds beach clean-ups on the first Saturday of each month.

Its founder Gregory Player, of Milnerton, told those gathered at the Mariner's Wharf end of the beach that a UCT study had found that by 2050 there would be more plastic in the sea than fish although some predicted it could happen sooner, and it was estimated that about 8 million metric tons of plastic waste entered the oceans each year.

The clean-ups were a way for families to spend time together while also doing something good for the planet, and businesses could get staff involved, he said.

Mr Player encouraged people to complain on social media about litter and dumping and to tag their councillors.

Included in the event were 3km and 12km runs and 250m, 750m and 1500m swims.

Despite City staff having cleaned the beach the previous day, volunteers still managed to collect 94kg of litter in 20 recycling bags. They also found a ring, car keys, tyre and a disused inflatable mattress.
