Obama unveils clean power plan to fight climate change

David Osborne and Tim Walker
The Independent

LONDON: Hoping to position the US to take the lead in global negotiations later this year to combat climate change, President Barack Obama unveiled a bold plan yesterday to slash emissions of carbon dioxide from power stations at home by almost a third within 15 years.

Detailing the new regulations, dubbed America's "Clean power plan", Obama asserted that "no challenge poses a greater threat to our future, the future generations, than the changing climate". He warned: "We only get one planet; there is no plan B." He noted that hitherto the federal government had never attempted to curb CO₂ from power plants.

"This is one of those rare issues, because of its scope, that, if we don't get it right, we may not be able to reverse; we may not be able to adapt sufficiently," Obama said. "There is such a thing as being too late when it comes to climate change... The science tells us we have to do more."

The landmark proposal, the biggest climate change measure ever attempted by the US, triggered an instant political and legal backlash as several states prepared to challenge the rules in the courts and Republican presidential runners accused Obama of declaring war on the already beleaguered coal sector.

It means that climate change will take centre stage in the coming presidential election. In 2012, it barely featured. Hillary Clinton, the leading Democratic candidate, had already stated her support for the emissions plan.

"It will need defending. Because Republican doubters and defeatists - including every Republican candidate for president - won't offer any credible solution," she said.

Whereas an earlier version of the plan required a 30 percent nationwide cut in carbon dioxide emissions by 2030, compared to 2005 levels, the final iteration toughens that target to 32 percent. Unchanged is the pledge Obama will take to final negotiations for a global UN treaty on climate change in Paris in December to cut overall emissions from all sources of pollution by 26 to 28 percent by 2030.

The UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon lauded the "visionary leadership" of Obama. "We believe that this plan shows the US' determination to address global warming while also saving money and growing (economically)," Stéphane Dujarric, Ban's spokesperson, said. The power-plant rules as written would force US energy companies to retire hundreds of coal-fired plants across the country, a potentially devastating blow to the coal sector. States with big coal interests are set to lead the effort to derail them.

The plan also puts an expanded emphasis on renewable sources of energy in place of coal and increasingly also of natural gas, putting the US on course to derive 28 percent of its power from sources such as solar and wind by 2030, compared to 22 percent in an earlier draft. A New York Times poll conducted in January suggested that two-thirds of Americans are likely to favour politicians willing to address climate change.

Christians held for alleged crimes

Chinese police have detained seven members of a Christian church for suspected crimes including embezzlement, state media and one of their lawyers said yesterday after they resisted a government campaign to take down their church's cross.

The Xinhua state news agency said the seven were detained on suspicion of amassing large amounts of money from running the church, embezzling donations and instigating others to disrupt the social order.

5 arrested for trafficking women

Thailand has arrested five people suspected of trafficking Thai women into sex slavery in China and believed to be part of a ring that has also trafficked women into Malaysia and Singapore, Thai police said yesterday.

The arrests come a week after the US kept Thailand on its list of the worst human trafficking centres. The Thai government has said it hopes the US will remove it from the blacklist following a crackdown.

2 000 migrants die en route to EU

More than 2 000 migrants and refugees have died this year trying to cross the Mediterranean Sea to reach Europe, the International Organisation for Migration (IOM) said yesterday.

The death toll is about 25 percent higher than during the same period last year. Migrants have been arriving in Greece and Italy by boat in roughly equal numbers, but nearly all of the deaths since January have occurred on the route from Libya to the Italian island of Sicily.

Stewart steps away from comedy gold as US election heats up

Heartbroken fans are wishing Jon Stewart a "jon voyage" on Twitter, but Donald Trump and the other 2016 US presidential candidates may be breathing a sigh of relief.

Stewart steps down from The Daily Show tomorrow after 16 years of biting political and media satire just as the presidential election campaign, a comedy gold mine, heats up.

Trump, the billionaire businessman-turned-Republican White House contender, has become Stewart's favourite target as his tenure on the popular Comedy Central programme winds down.

JON STEWART

"Donald Trump is the candidate version of the hot dog-crust pizza," Stewart said last month. "You don't want it, you never ordered it. You can't believe someone came up with it. But now it's all you want to eat."

Stewart, who is widely credited with having transformed US political comedy, has dubbed next year's elections "Democalypse 2016". He told Britain's Guardian newspaper in April that he was weary after covering four previous elections and "it didn't appear that there was going to be anything wildly different about this one".

French police free Gabon official

French police have released the chief of staff of Gabon's President Ali Bongo who was detained for questioning in a corruption probe after the foreign ministry said he had diplomatic immunity, a judicial source said yesterday.

Monday's arrest of one of Gabon's most influential and controversial figures, Maixent Accrombessi, had been sharply condemned by Libreville, stoking tensions between the oil-rich Central African country and France.

US may help fight Boko Haram

The US could lift a ban on shipping arms to Nigeria's military to help fight the militant Islamist group Boko Haram if Abuja improves its human rights record, visiting US Congress members said yesterday.

They said Washington would provide more support for the fight against the group, which has killed thousands of people in its drive to set up an Islamic state in north-eastern Nigeria, if alleged abuses are investigated and perpetrators punished.

The military has been accused of violating human rights while trying to defeat the Boko Haram insurgency.

Myanmar appeals for aid after floods

YANGON: Myanmar said yesterday it had appealed for international assistance to help provide food, temporary shelter and clothing for more than 210 000 people affected by widespread flooding following weeks of heavy monsoon rains.

At least 47 people have died in the floods, according to the government.

Myanmar's call for international aid stands in sharp contrast to the stance taken when it was ruled by generals.

The junta had refused outside help in the wake of a devastating cyclone in 2008, when 130 000 people perished in the disaster.

HEARTBROKEN: Shahzullah (centre) and Makhni Bibi (second from right), the parents of Shafqat Hussain, speak to journalists after their son was hanged in Karachi yesterday. They say he was only 14 years old when he was convicted of murder a decade ago. The hanging had been postponed four times this year to settle a dispute about his age at the time he killed a seven-year-old boy in 2004.

TORTURED INTO CONFESSING TO MURDER, SAY LAWYERS

Man executed despite outcry

Katharine Hourel
Reuters

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan yesterday hanged a man whose case triggered an international outcry because his lawyers said he was arrested as a juvenile and tortured into confessing to murder.

Pakistan has hanged nearly 200 people since December, when a massacre by militants at a school in the city of Peshawar prompted the government to lift a de facto ban on capital punishment.

Only Iran and China have executed more people than Pakistan this year, says human rights group Amnesty International.

"Shafqat Hussain was this morning executed in Pakistan, despite widespread calls, both within and outside the country, for a stay," legal aid group Justice Project Pakistan, which was representing Hussain, said.

Pakistani law does not allow the execution of someone arrested as a juvenile.

State prosecutors said Hussain was an adult working as a watchman when he was arrested.

Lawyers for Hussain said school records showed he was 17 in 2004 when he was burnt with cigarettes and had fingernails removed until he confessed to killing a child.

His family have said he was 14; lawyers said the family did not keep records regarding Hussain's birth.

David Griffiths, Amnesty

International's South Asia research director, said the execution marked a "deeply sad day for Pakistan".

"A man whose age remains disputed and whose conviction was built around torture has now paid with his life," he said.

Police denied that Hussain had been tortured.

"A competent court has gone through Hussain's case at length and torture allegations were never proved," police spokesperson Qamar Zaib Satti said.

Lawyers say the justice system is deeply flawed and few police are trained to conduct investigations.

Defence lawyers, appointed by courts for those too poor to pay, often do not show up and accusations of confessions extracted through torture are common.

Hussain's family says that is what happened to him.

Their mother said the family was too poor to pay a private lawyer.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION PROCESS
APPLICATION FOR EXPLORATION RIGHTS TO UNDERTAKE OIL AND GAS EXPLORATION ACTIVITIES IN TWO AREAS OFF THE SOUTH-WEST COAST OF SOUTH AFRICA
PASA Ref No's: 12/3/292 ER and 12/3/293 ER

South China Sea talks: Philippines backs US

KUALA LUMPUR: The Philippines will back a US call to halt land reclamation in disputed areas of the South China Sea, the country's foreign minister said yesterday, despite China's insistence that the issue should not be raised at an upcoming meeting.

Foreign Minister Albert Del Rosario said the Philippines was ready to help de-escalate tensions in the disputed region, if China and other claimant states agreed to be bound by the same conditions.

Del Rosario added that the Philippines planned to discuss the topic at the 48th Asean (Association of Southeast Asian Nations) Foreign Ministers' Meeting, which kicked off in Kuala Lumpur yesterday.

His comments come a day after China said it did not want the theme discussed at the Asean's gathering.

Neither China nor the US are members of the regional body, but both will be represented during several days of talks in the Malaysian capital.

US Secretary of State John Kerry will be in Kuala Lumpur today and tomorrow.

"The Philippines fully supports and will pro-actively promote the call of the US on the 'three halts': halt in reclamation, halt in construction, and halt in aggressive actions that could further heighten tensions," Del Rosario said.

"We will agree to be bound only if China and other claimant states agree."

Though not on the official agenda, the South China Sea is among key topics likely to be discussed at the meeting, amid a backdrop of tension.

China claims most of the South China Sea, through which $5 trillion (R63 trillion) in ship-borne trade passes every year.

The Philippines, Vietnam, Malaysia, Taiwan and Brunei have overlapping claims. - Reuters

262kg of elephant tusks seized, three Chinese men arrested

VIENNA: Elephant tusks weighing 262kg were seized at Zurich Airport before they could be shipped to China, the world's largest ivory market, Swiss customs officials said yesterday. At least 40 elephants were killed to acquire the tusks, which have an estimated black-market value of 400 000 Swiss francs.

The contraband ivory was found in early July stored in several suitcases that three Chinese couriers had brought from Dar es Salaam in Tanzania to Zurich. The men were apprehended as they were about to board a plane to Beijing.

Besides this record ivory find at Zurich Airport, customs officials have detected smaller shipments hidden in cosmetic cream jars in past weeks. "There is apparently an effort to open a new ivory trade route via Zurich at the moment," said Heinz Widmer, the customs chief.

Ivory trade is banned under the Washington Convention, which aims to protect endangered animals and plants. While Dar es Salaam is known as a major hub for the ivory trade, China is the biggest market.

Poaching of rhinos and elephants has reached critical levels, leading to the possibility of extinction. An estimated 30 000 elephants are killed for their ivory each year.

The three Chinese suspects were initially detained but were granted bail worth 100 000 francs.

They face Swiss fines of up to 40 000 francs each, but Widmer said the men would probably face more severe punishments in China. - dpa

ANC EN KERKE VERGADER

“’n Paar harde goed is gesê”

Claudi Mailovich

JOHANNESBURG. – Die “verkennde” gesprek in Johannesburg tussen ANC-leiers en die Tussenkerklike Raad (TKR) gaan nie nou al ’n verskil maak aan die land se moraliteit en integriteit nie, maar hopelik sal dit wat uit die gesprek voortvloei tog ’n verskil maak.

Só het ds. Cassie Aucamp, een van die Gereformeerde Kerke in Suid-Afrika (GKSA) se verteenwoordigers, gesê ná ’n drie uur lange vergadering gister in Luthuli-huis met ANC-swaargewigte.

Gwede Mantashe, sekretaris-generaal van die ANC, Jessie Duarte, adjunksekretaris-generaal van die ANC, en Zizi Kodwa, die ANC se woordvoerder, was onder die teenwoordiges.

Die gesprek het gevolg op ’n skerp bewoerde ope brief van die TKR in Junie waarin hy gesê het hy onttrek hom aan die ANC se ampelike gesprek met Afrikaanse organisasies.

Volgens Aucamp het hulle drie punte uitgelig op die vergadering: ■ Die sosiale kohesie en versoening in die land wat lyk asof dit uitmekaar val; ■ Die morele verval; en ■ Die krisis wat die integriteit en die geloofwaardigheid van die regering en die ANC betref.

“’n Mens het miskien so ’n bietjie ’n kykie gekry in ’n ander wêreld, maar nie so dat dit ons me-Verteenwoordigers van die Tussenkerklike Raad daag gister op vir hul vergadering met die ANC. Dr. Braam Hanekom, moderator van die NG Kerk in Wes- en Suid-Kaapland, stap voor met dr. Wouter van Wyk, sekretaris van toerusting, inligting en kommunikasie van die Nederduitsch Hervormde Kerk van Afrika (NHKA), dr. Johann Ernst, akteur van die NG Kerk, en dr. ning verander het nie. Dit was ons daar geskryf het, staan vas,” het hy gesê.

Afgevaardigdes uit albei kampe is aangewys wat die verdere gesprekke tussen die TKR en die ANC moet reël en daar is spesifieke punte op die sakelyste gesit waarop gefokus moet word.

Dr. Wim Dreyer, voorsitter van die Nederduitsch Hervormde Kerk van Afrika (NHKA) se algemene kerkgadering, het gesê dit is die kerk se rol om profeties oor die regering te getuig.

“Ons het in ’n stadium aanvaar dat ons nie eintlik gehoor word of ’n stem het nie,” het Dreyer gesê en benadruk dat dit goed is dat daar na “soveel jaar” weer ’n oop deur is.

“Ons het vir hulle ’n paar harde goed gesê en hulle vir ons. Maar ons het vandag ’n deur oopgemaak vir toekomstige gesprekke.”

Dr. Braam Hanekom, moderator van die NG Kerk in Wes- en Suid-Kaapland, het gesê dat dit op geen manier ’n “towerstaffie is wat alles gaan verander nie. Daarvoor is die sake te kompleks”.

Hy meen egter die geskiedenis word nie gebou met oomblikke waar alles oombliklik verander nie. “Dit word gebou deur ’n 1 001 oomblikke waar elkeen sy deel doen.”

Mantashe het by navraag gesê die vergadering was “baie konstruktief. ’n Eerste ontmoeting, maar baie konstruktief”.

Dogter gee vir Tutu nagmaal in hospitaal

Anika Marais

KAAPSTAD. – Voordat emeritus-aartsbiskop dr. Desmond Tutu (83) gisteroggend uit die hospitaal ontslaan is, het hy en sy dogter saam nagmaal gebrui.

Eerw. Mpho Tutu het ’n houtkruis op die hospitaalbed se tafeltjie neergesit en twee teeliggies aangesteek voordat hulle nagmaal in die hospitaalkamer gebruik het.

Tutu het in die hospitaalbed bly lê terwyl sy vir hulle gebid het.

“Ons wil weer eens ons gesin se diepe dankbaarheid uitspreek vir die liefde, omgee en gebede wat ons van Suid-Afrikaners en mense wêreldwyd ontvang het,” het sy in ’n ver-klaring gesê.

Tutu sterb by die huis aan nadat hy ’n week gelede in ’n Kaapse hospitaal opgeneem is om ’n klein mediese prosedure te ondergaan. Die prosedure het bepaal hoe erg die infeksie is waarmee hy reeds ’n geruime tyd sukkel. Volgens sy dogter is die infeksie ’n gevolg van die behandeling vir prostaatkanker wat haar pa die afgelope 18 jaar ontvang. Die kanker is egter onder beheer.

Tutu is ook vroeër in Julie weens dieselfde infeksie in die hospitaal opgeneem.

Die minister van gesondheid, dr. Aaron Motsoaledi, het Tutu ook gisteroggend besoek.

Luidens die verklaring het hy aan Motsoaledi gesê sy versorging in die hospitaal was “eersteklas”, maar dat talke Suid-Afrikaners nie toegang tot dieselfde vlak van gesondheidsdienste het nie.

Hy het ook bygevoeg dat hy die voorstel van nasionale gesondheidsversekering ondersteun.

Outpres. Thabo Mbeki het ook verlede week by Tutu besoek afgelê.

‘Kerkrower’ kom sy moses teë met pastoor

FLORIDA. – ’n Gewapende rower in Amerika het Sondag sy moses teëgekomp toe hy kerkgangers wou beroof en die pastoor hom getakel het.

Luidens ’n verklaring deur Dan Lynch, stasiebevelvoerder van die Melbourne-polisie departement in Florida, het John Grace (21) Sondagoggend tydens ’n diens van die The Door-gemeenskapskerk ingeloopt en ’n vuurwapen teen ’n kerkganger se kop gedruk.

Grace het op geld van die ses lidmate aangedring en gedreig om hulle te skiet.

Hy het almal beveel om op die grond te lê en hulle met kabelbinders vasgebind. Hy was ook met ’n groot kombuismes gewapen.

Lynch het gesê past. Leslie (Les) Snodgrass het Grace geadreer en met hom begin praat. Toe hy naby genoeg aan Grace was, het Snodgrass hom getakel.

Met die hulp van sy seun, Darius, kon Snodgrass die windpistool van Grace afneem en hulle het hom vasgehou tot die polisie opgedaag het. Die polisie het Grace weens poging tot gewapende roof in hegtenis geneem.

Darius Snodgrass het op Facebook geskryf Grace het kleefband en handdoeke in sy rugzak gehad. “Hy wou ons monde toestop, maar my pa het op hom afgepyl en hom teen die muur gedruk. Ek het hom bespring en hard in die gesig geslaan.” Volgens hom het Grace gereed na dié kerk toe gekom. – Jody Nel

EFF staan byna alle mosies teen

KAAPSTAD. – Die EFF was gistermiddag in die parlement oënskynlik daarop uit om elke mosie teen te staan – selfs dié wat die digter T.T. Cloete gehuldig het.

Die party het tot die afgrise van sekere politieke partye van mosies vir Cloete tot die mosies waarin sportspanne gelukkigewens word, teengestaan.

Sulke mosies verval wanneer dit teengestaan word.

Fatima Chohan, adjunkminister van binnelandse sake, het later kapse gemaak teen EFF-LP’s wat mosies namens “hul opperbevelvoerder” voorgelê het.

Dr. Pieter Groenewald, VF Plus-LP, het spottenderwys gesê elke keer wanneer die EFF verwys na die opperbevelvoerder, beteken dit eintlik pres. Jacob Zuma. Daarna is daar uitdruklik verwys na die “opperbevelvoerder van die EFF”.

Dr. Pieter Mulder, VF Plus-leier, wie se mosie oor Cloete teengestaan is, het later in ’n verklaring kapse gemaak teen die EFF se kleinlike politiek.

Ook wyle prof. Johan Degenaar, politieke filosoof wat in ’n mosie van DA-LP, dr. Wilmot James, gehuldig is, het deurgeloopt. Sels ’n mosie wat Moslems Eid Mubarak toegewens het, is teengestaan.

Mosiua Lekota, Cope-leier, het ’n mosie ingedien dat Zuma al die Nkandla-geld terugbetaal. Iemand uit die ANC-banke het toe kapse gemaak. – Alicestine October

Lemm's getting trees

DALEEN FOUCHÉ

Further beautification of Lemm's Corner is coming to fruition, thanks to several pledges for benches and trees that have been made.

Preparations are underway for five mature trees to be planted, but creating the holes is no easy task however, says Elizabeth du Toit, manager of the Old Harbour Museum.

"Big rocks have to be removed! The original plan was to 'blast' the rocks, but the contractor is now looking at the possibility of using chemicals to create the 1.5 m holes that must accommodate the roots of mature trees."

Although no decision has yet been made on the trees to be planted, Du Toit assures that they will be indigenous. "We are still deciding if all the trees must be the same type, or if different kinds of trees must be planted. Either way, we would like the trees to attract birds."

Five people have made pledges so far that will provide for three handmade wooden memory benches and two of the trees. Pledge forms are available at the Old Harbour Museum.

The upgrade was designed by architect Nicolette Lloyd and includes the already installed water feature. "We are now looking to add more water plants to the water feature, that will help to put oxygen in the water for the fish," says Du Toit.

Several fish were added to the water feature by Anton and Nicole Verhoogt, owners of Fisherman's Cottage Restaurant who also sponsored the soil, compost and plants for the herb garden. The restaurant maintains the garden and makes use of the harvest. New plants will be added next month for the summer harvest.

Du Toit also praises local businesses on Lemm's Corner who have upped the ante and upgraded their shop fronts. Sidewalk Boutique has installed a glass window and Rossouw Modern has made a garden before their gallery.
