Dougie Dyers' legacy celebrated

AVRIL FILLIES
AVRIL.FILLIES@MEDIA24.COM

The contribution by the late 85-year-old Dougie Dyers from Belhar to South African rugby is well-documented and cannot be understated.

He was a pioneer as a coach, mentor, administrator and the first coach of colour who won the Sport Pienaar Trophy in 1990 with Wilfred Cupido from Bellville as captain and Johnny Joubert from Wynberg as vice-captain at the time.

Here are some of the firsts in his illustrious career of rugby during apartheid and the unification of rugby in South Africa:

• He toured with a coloured team to the UK and the Netherlands in 1971, where they played eight games, won five, lost two and drew one. He campaigned in the apartheid era for the same rights for black and coloured players as those of white players in the structures of South African rugby.

• In 1972, he captained the Proteas against the English side of John Pullen at Goodwood Showgrounds, (where GrandWest is currently situated).

• He captained the Proteas against the British and Irish Lions of Willie-John McBride in 1974, the same year he retired and switched to coaching.

• He was one of two selectors of colour (the other being Albert Dwezi) of the South African Rugby Association at the mixed trials at Loftus Versfeld in 1977.

• In 1978, the South African Rugby Football Federation (SARFF) competed in the competitions of the former SA Rugby Board of Doc Craven as the WP Federation.

• For the first time in 1980, the front row and locks of the Proteas consisted of five white players to give the backline a better opportunity to score tries. The five WP players were Henning van Aswegen, Robert Cockrell, Hempies du Toit, De Villiers Visser and Hennie Bekker.

• In 1981, the WP Federation was divided into Boland League, WP League and SWD League to compete in the Sport Pienaar Competition and Errol Tobias became the first black Springbok. Dyers coached the WP League in 1990 to win the Sport Pienaar Trophy

After unification in 1992.

Dyers was life-long vice-president at WP Rugby Union until he retired 15 years ago.

People's Post spoke to players who were coached by Dyers through the years. Here are their tributes:

• Johnny Joubert said: "Dougie Dyers was one of the most complete human beings I had the honour to know as a brilliant rugby coach, caring team manager, life mentor and true friend.

"My time as a member of the WP League side under Dougie Dyer's guidance was incredibly rewarding and humbling and I feel incredibly privileged to have been part of the brilliant job Dougie did in the transformation of rugby. M

"He played a massive role in my development as a leader and I will be forever grateful to him for who he was."

• Bryn Morse from Wynberg said: "A family man – one who loved his children and, in many respects, he infused the family culture into our team.

"He was a man of unquestionable integrity; a man who achieved so much – often against the odds – yet remained humble and modest; a man who genuinely cared for and brought out the best in those around him; a kind man, often gentle by nature yet rock solid in stature and resolve; a courageous man who feared to tread where others feared to go or simply refused to go; a wise man in many ways ahead of his time, particularly with his views on that wonderful game rugby and how it should be played.

"It did not surprise me that Dougie and Doc Craven were close friends. When I played for Maties Doc's stock phrase said during our pre-match team talks was 'Manne, remember the game is bigger than any individual – you and me included', and I know Dougie felt very much the same way."

• Abie Williams from Pinelands said: "My friendship with Dougie started in 1961 until his passing. Through the years, he gave his life for rugby and to help create the same chances for coloureds and blacks as their white counterparts.

"With the late Norman Langley, they initiated the Junior Federation Week, because blacks and coloureds were not allowed at Craven Weeks before 1980.

"With Doc Craven and the late Ian Kirkpatrick, they established the Fish Factories Tournament in Velddrif and later in Saldanha.

"Doc also helped me and Dougie to host coaching clinics in the rural areas.

"As a friend, we shared a passion for rugby and rugby-related matters.

"I was one of the last people who visited him the day before his passing on Tuesday.

"I'll miss him and his legacy in rugby will never be forgotten."

Invitation to Public Meetings: Scoping and Environmental Impact Assessment (S&EIA) process for the proposed offshore Production Right and Environmental Authorisation Applications for Block 11B/12B by TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. Ref No. 12/4/013

A joint venture comprising TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. 'n Gesamentlike onderneming bestaande uit TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. (TEEPSA), QatarEnergy, Canadian Natural Resources International (South Africa) Limited en 'n Suid-Afrikaanse konsortium, MainStreet 1549, het 'n Eksplorasiereg gehou oor Blok 11B/12B wat afdandig van die Suid-Kaapse kus, Suid-Afrika geleë is. TEEPSA beplan om die gasulphronne binne die aansoekgebied te ontwikkel indien 'n Produksiereg toegestaan word en indien kommersiële ooreenkomste vir die verkoop van die gas op die binnelandse mark aangegaan kan word.

TEEPSA het WSP Group Africa (Pty) Ltd (WSP) aangestel as die onafhanklike Omgewingsevalueringpraktisyn om die Omvangbepaling en Omgewingsimpakbepaling en openbaredeelnameproses uit te voer.

'n Reeks openbare vergaderings sal vanaf 16 Januarie tot 26 Januarie 2023 langs die Suid-Kaapse kus plaasvind. U word uitgenooi om die openbare vergaderings by te woon wat deel van die fase van Omvangbepaling van die OB&OIB uitmaak.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BULLETIN

NDLAMBE MUNICIPALITY

Statement on drownings at Kenton-on-Sea beach

On January 1 at about 5.54pm the NSRI, emergency services and Ndlambe Municipality were informed that a drowning was in progress at Kariega Main Beach, Kenton-on-Sea. On arrival three young girls were found on the beach. Cardio-pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) was continued but later they were declared deceased. A young boy was reported missing and search parties continued looking for him. On January 5, the body of the young boy was washed ashore at Kariega Main Beach.

Numerous articles in the Talk of the Town appeared in December whereby the municipality sensitised the public to obey the instructions of lifeguards and to emphasise that lifeguards are not there to baby-sit children: their care is the responsibility of their caregivers.

The festive season contingency plan was approved by the Ndlambe Council and states that lifeguards at the Blue

Flag Beaches such as Kelly's and Kariega Main Beach are on duty from 8.30am to 5.30pm from 1 December to 30 April. These operating hours have been in place for the past 12 seasons at Kariega Main Blue Flag Beach. Lifeguards are on duty seven days per week for the duration of the Blue Flag season.

It is protocol that if the lifeguards feel that the beaches are too busy and that sea conditions require them to extend operating hours, they will inform the beach manager to work an additional hour. The beach manager visited the beach an hour before 5.30pm. Based on sea conditions and the fact that the beach was not that busy and there were favourable sea conditions prevailing, no request was made to extend the hours.

At 5.30pm, lifeguards followed procedure by whistling all bathers who were in the water out the sea; informing everyone that they will be knocking off duty; and removing the swimming flags and indicating that swimming should not continue.

Since the drownings there have been lots of comments regarding why there were no lifeguards on duty when the drownings occurred. It must be noted that from 1 May to 30 November there are no lifeguards on any of Ndlambe beaches, including the Blue Flag beaches. The drownings occurred outside the Blue Flag lifeguards' operating hours and it is unreasonable to expect that lifeguards be on duty for the duration of daylight hours.

Parents and caregivers are urged to look after their children when visiting the beaches. Parents and caregivers need to be aware that over New Year's Day, beaches such as Kariega Main beach have large numbers of adults visiting the beach. It is not a safe environment for young children to be interacting with the crowds on such a busy day: rather accompany them before or after the New Year's day when the beaches are not busy.

Ndlambe Municipality's deepest sympathy and condolences to the families of the children who lost their lives. As part of the Blue Flag criteria environmental awareness programme, beach safety sessions will be conducted during the season up until April. Schools throughout Ndlambe will be contacted to arrange visits to Kelly's and Kariega Main Blue Flag Beaches whereby children will be educated on the dangers of the sea, safety at shore under the supervision of lifeguards. Ndlambe Municipality will also facilitate basic water skills and swimming interaction with youngsters. We will be liaising with NGO bodies to roll out swimming and sea safety awareness.

The NSRI will meet up with Ndlambe Municipality regarding the procedures and authority to establish a satellite NSRI base at Middle Beach, Kenton-on-Sea. Ndlambe continues to work closely with the NSRI team and appreciate what the NSRI volunteers offer to save the lives that end up in trouble. In 2022 the municipality donated funds to the NSRI base in Port Alfred.

It must be noted that even though there were no lifeguards placed at Port Alfred West Beach, 365 days of the year, no drownings have been reported there during the past festive season or on New Year's Day 2023.

The municipality urges every person to take care when visiting the beaches and follow instructions from the lifeguards. If there are no lifeguards on the beach, refrain from swimming. This applies to all beaches, even swimming beaches where lifeguards are not on duty. Anybody who swims where there are no lifeguards does that at their own risk.

We appreciate the efforts of those who went into the sea to rescue those young children, the NSRI and volunteers who involved during the tragic incident. Let us all work together to make the Ndlambe area, the "Heart of the Sunshine Coast", safe for all to enjoy.

ARTIST IN THE HOUSE: Nelson Mandela University Fine Arts graduate Seamus Coetzee stands next to the beginnings of a mural on a derelict wall of the derelict former provincial nature conservation officer's house on Mountain Drive, Makhanda. The town features the work of several street artists, including Port Alfred's very own Mook Lion. It's the first time this ruin has been used as a canvas. If you walk that way, look on the other side of the wall, where a street artist who declined to be named or photographed was also busy. Picture: SUE MACLENNAN

Kids and money: five ways to start talking

BOMIKAZI ZEKI and ABDUL LATIF ALHASSAN

When it comes to teaching young children about the world, parents may feel that some topics – like politics and religion – are too tough to broach. Money is another. Parents may not feel like they know how to approach the subject, or worry that they don't set a good financial example for their kids.

But money talk shouldn't be avoided. Talking about it is the first stepping stone towards financial knowledge and, ultimately, to financial independence. Holding off the conversations for too long can leave your children in the lurch later in life. Perhaps your child receives an allowance and you feel this is enough to familiarise them with the concept of saving or about the value of money. But studies have found that an allowance is most beneficial when it's paired with guidance on savings and budgeting.

Children learn through numerous sources of influence, including school, friends and the media. But the greatest influence of their financial socialisation – that is, the values, knowledge, attitudes and behaviours that promote financial well-being – are their parents or primary caregivers. The earlier you start the conversation the better; the majority of children between the ages of 11 and 17 lack confidence in managing money. If you've wondered how you can teach your children about savings and budgeting, here are five ideas to explore for children aged 10 and above.

Setting goals

Setting financial goals is an important part of learning how to manage money because it requires you to prioritise your financial needs. It also requires systems. Studies have shown that people perform better when they have written down what they need to do.

There are several free and printable online goal charts that kids can use to either tick off or colour in how much they've accumulated in the kitty. Goal charts or clear jars are particularly helpful for children who are visual learners as they get to "see their savings grow" over time.

Savings

The motivation to accumulate savings becomes stronger when it's coupled with a financial goal. As adults, we understand the need to save for a rainy day, but this concept may be foreign to a child. Instead, consider teaching the importance of saving in relation to an event a child can understand and relate to, such as a birthday or Christmas Day.

This not only gives children an incentive to save towards something they are interested in. It also teaches them financial discipline and delayed gratification (they can access the money in the kitty now but will miss the opportunity to have more money from it in future).

Saving vs investment

For older children, or at an age-appropriate level (research suggests this is between the ages of 12 and 17), the conversation on savings can be elevated to introduce the concept of investing.

Saving can be a fun, educational experience for children. ESB Professional/Shutterstock

While saving refers to the accumulation of funds by intentionally spending less, investing is the purchasing of an asset that provides income from the asset itself.

Budgeting

The concept of budgeting can be taught in a child-friendly way. Take, for example, an upcoming birthday party: you can use straws to illustrate that all the straws represent the total budget for the birthday party. The idea is to teach children how to work within the confines of the budget. Create a list of what is needed for the party and allow the child to allocate the straws according to the items on the list. This can be a teachable moment to show that allocating too much for one item will come at the expense of something else.

After the party, reflect on what the child has learnt about the process, including their likes and dislikes. Helping others Children are often taught the importance of sharing. Money is not just a resource for spending or buying things – it can also be used to help others.

Overall Dakar leader Al-Attiyah takes control

Nasser Al-Attiyah and Mattieu Baumel powered their Gazoo Toyota Hilux to a crushing Dakar day five victory yesterday as they consolidated their overall lead in the race.

Honda duo Adrien van Beveren and Jose Cornejo came from behind to take a bike 1-2 in a test of navigation through the soft Arabian Desert sand and camel grass of a second loop around Ha'il.

South Africans Henk Lategan and Brett Cummings's Gazoo Hilux led Dakar legends Stephane Peterhansel's petrol-electric Audi, Al-Attiyah, Carlos Sainz's Audi and Sebastian Loeb's Prodrive Hunter with Mattias Ekstrom's Audi in pursuit.

SA crews Brian Baragwanath and Leonard Cremer's Century CR6-T and Giniel de Villiers and Dennis Murphy's Gazoo Hilux ran ninth and tenth.

There was drama when Laia Sanz and Maurizio Gerini's Century rolled heavily. The crew emerged unscathed, but their Dakar is over.

Up front, Peterhansel soon made use of Audi's Wednesday power reprise to move ahead of Al-Attiyah, Sainz and Loeb as Lategan lost a little time.

In a battle of the giants up front, Loeb then surged ahead, before Al-Attiyah went back at him at two-thirds distance.

Al-Attiyah then controlled the race from the front with the four behind swapping places regularly.

Luckless Loeb, however, hit trouble again and lost 15 minutes to jet trouble and Peterhansel off the hook to finish second and third from home hero Yazeed Al-Rajhi's Toyota, Guerlain Chicherit and Alex Wincoc in a Prodrive Hunter, and Lategan. De Villiers ended eighth.

Baragwanath ran into trouble when they fell into a hole and had to wait for assistance late in the stage and dropped to 20th, as Century teammates Mathieu Seradori and Loic Minaudier Century came home 11th.

South African Ryan Bland was navigating German Daniel Schröder's PS Laser Red-Lined Nissan in 34th and Gerhard Schutte guiding Thomas Bell in 48th at the time of writing.

All four SA-built Red-Lined bakkies were still running strongly. Overall, Al-Attiyah opened his car lead up to 22 minutes after Day 5, now over Peterhansel, who passed Al-Rajhi for second.

Sainz is third from Lategan, Toyota rookie Luca Moraes and De Villiers. Seradori is back up to 12th, but Baragwanath slipped to 20th.

Wednesday's top three bikes struggled to open the road as Jose Cornejo's Honda-led KTM trio Toby Price, Matthias Walkner and Mason Klein early on.

Price moved ahead to lead Husqvarna man Skyler Howes and Klein. Botswana's Ross Branch sat 11th ahead of overall leader Daniel Sanders (GasGas).

SA rookie Michael Docherty sat 22nd and Original man Charnoy Moore 33rd. Price then lost time as fifth and sixth at mid-distance, Honda pair Cornejo and Van Beveren moved into the picture.

They were second and third early in the afternoon, before powering ahead later on. Van Beveren went on to take the day from Cornejo, KTM trio Klein, Walkner and Price, Howes and Lorenzo Santolini's Sherco.

Alexandre Giroud dominated the quads with another stage win on Thursday over Moreno Flores and Laisvydas Kancius. Friday's stage 6 will be fast at the start, with dunes to follow.

It will be the second-longest Dakar 2023 stage at 467km, as crew make their way across the breadth of Saudi Arabia to Duwadimi. — Motorsport Media

Invitation to Public Meetings: Scoping and Environmental Impact Assessment (S&EIA) process for the proposed offshore Production Right and Environmental Authorisation Applications for Block 11B/12B by TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. Ref No. 12/4/013

A joint venture comprising TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. (TEEPSA), QatarEnergy, Canadian Natural Resources International (South Africa) Limited and a South African consortium, MainStreet 1549, held an Exploration Right over Block 11B/12B, located offshore from the Southern Cape Coast, South Africa. The Joint Venture now wants to convert the Exploration Right into a Production Right. The Production Right Application Area is approximately 100 km offshore and extends between Mossel Bay and Cape St Francis. TEEPSA is planning to develop the gas resources within the Application Area if a Production Right is granted and if commercial agreements for the sale of the gas onto the domestic market can be achieved.

TEEPSA appointed WSP Group Africa (Pty) Ltd (WSP) as the independent Environmental Assessment Practitioner to conduct the Scoping and Environmental Impact Assessment and public participation process.

A series of public meetings will be taking place along the Southern Cape Coast from 16 January to 26 January 2023. You are invited to attend the public meetings that form part of the Scoping Phase of the S&EIA.

Some unusual visitors at Queenstown Yacht Club

LEN'S NEWS

Last Saturday around midday, Ian Wood watched a swarm of bees make their way across the very full Bonkolo Dam.

They decided to take a rest on their journey and settled under the transom on the Hoffman's boat Quiddity. That put paid to the day's sailing for the family.

These swarms are often called "trek" swarms because they take a break on their journey to a new home. If left to their own devices they will move on within a day or two to the new hive. However, their choice of a place to stay is not always convenient, as was the case here.

Wood called in a local beekeeper, Reg Morgan, who arrived with a hive to collect the bees. Once the box was placed on the boat the bees immediately began moving into the new home.

JUST RESTING: A swarm of bees had to be relocated on Saturday after they settled on a boat. Picture: SUPPLIED

While this was going on, another small swarm decided to gather in the grass under a nearby tree. Fortunately, the beekeeper had brought along a smaller box which enabled the other swarm to begin moving in.

Some of the young boys were fascinated by the proceedings. One of them decided to do a bee rescue job by collecting bees in the water and placing them on the boat. The bees happily flew off when they had dried their wings.

Watching everything going on as normal at the Yacht Club was fascinating, with boats sailing, motors revving as powered boats and jet skis were coming and going. All the while the bees were marching quietly into the hive.

As the sun was setting the bees were all collected in the boxes and taken on to their new home at a local apiary.

The City will kick off the annual ecological burns for this season in February.

Burns scheduled for City's nature reserves

It's that time of the year again where the City of Cape Town's Biodiversity Management Branch staff will conduct the annual ecological burns at various nature reserves in February, March and April.

Residents are reminded that the ecological burn for the Blaauwberg Nature Reserve's Hill Section of 26,7 ha will take place in February and March.

The actual dates are dependent on weather conditions. Ecological burns are vital to the preservation of natural vegetation, among other things, the City says in a recent statement.

"Carefully managed burns are necessary to obtain maximum species diversity. There are numerous benefits to burns. For example, by removing the canopy created by the mature vegetation, sunlight is allowed to reach the ground, which helps with seed germination. Fire also provides the critical stimulation which many of our unique fire dependant plant species require to germinate," says the City's acting Mayor and Mayco member for spatial planning and environment, Eddie Andrews.

PROTECTING THE FYNBOS

The City says while fires that occur too frequently can lead to a decline in slow growing species and reduced seed production, fires that occur with an interval of more than 20 years can lead to bush encroachment and the local extinction of species.

"Another advantage of burning old vegetation is that it reduces fuel loads, which in turn reduces the risk of wild fires," says Andrews.

In addition to fynbos regeneration, ecological burns are also used as a tool for restoration: as a first treatment for invasive clearing, and to restore habitat for critically endangered species.

Staff from the environmental management department (EMD) will work with Cape Town Fire and Rescue Service, as well as Working on Fire and Volunteer Wildfire Services.

By scheduling prescribed burns, EMD staff can ensure that the correct staff, equipment and favourable weather conditions are in place to ensure that the procedure is conducted efficiently and safely.

Prevention of drowning key

Since the start of the festive season, the Lifesaving South Africa (LSA) drowning prevention centres, where their voluntary clubs operate, have been flooded with thousands of bathers coming to the shores for leisure.

Although not all reports of drowning have been confirmed, the reports show that there is an increase in drowning especially in areas that are not covered by lifeguards, the LSA says.

Drowning incidents are scattered across the country, and all beaches without lifeguards or at times when lifeguards have been off duty remain dangerous to swim.

"The highest number of people who are affected by drowning is mostly young children due to the lack of adult supervision, and this is followed by youth due to swimming under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Men are also the ones that have the highest drowning rate. As a drowning prevention movement with over 113 years of experience, we urge members of the public to be vigilant and make use of the areas that are patrolled by lifeguards as these are regarded as safe zones to swim," says Mziwoxolo Mayedwa, LSA's director of drowning prevention in a recent statement.

Currently, LSA has over 80 lifesaving clubs that work to prevent drowning.

"Over the years LSA managed to produce over 4 200 active lifeguards whose qualifications are accredited and recognised by the International Life Saving Federation (ILS) whose headquarters are in Leuven, Belgium. These lifeguards play an active role in ensuring our shores are safe," Mayedwa says.

WATER SAFETY TIPS

- ) Swim where there are qualified lifeguards on duty. Qualified lifeguards are trained to be able to prevent drowning by identifying the dangers in the water, positioning the swimming beacons at a safe swimming point, and when needed performing rescues, first aid, and CPR.
- ) Swim between the red and yellow flags. Red and yellow flags indicate the daily safe designated area that has been identified by lifeguards and it is a safe area to swim.
- ) Before entering the sea, swimmers must take time to watch the waves and identify the rip currents. Rip currents are strong and can wash bathers onto the rocks or pull them out to sea and away from the shore. Rip currents are extremely dangerous and can be found around rocks and points as well as along open stretches of beaches. Swimmers need to be aware of and avoid rip currents.

THERE IS AN INCREASE IN DROWNING

) Never swim while you are intoxicated. Alcohol impairs judgment and unnecessary risks are taken. An intoxicated swimmer will tire more easily, increasing the chance of an accident or drowning.

CHECK FOR ON-DUTY LIFEGUARDS

- ) Check with the lifeguards on duty what the surf conditions are before entering the sea.
- ) Listen to the lifeguard when they give you directions or instructions from the beach.
- ) Avoid swimming immediately after a big meal, as this could cause cramps.
- ) Do not swim in river mouths or dirty water, very early in the mornings, early evenings, or after it had rained as shark activity increases in these conditions.
- ) Be careful of the blue bottles as they can be harmful.
- ) Never leave a young child unattended near water and never make a child responsible for another child – not even for five minutes. Teach children to always ask permission to go near water.

) It is important to know your limits. Be careful if the sea is too rough, you could be swept away. Rough seas are as dangerous as rip currents, weak swimmers can easily be swept into deep waters. If you experience strong waves, get out of the sea, or at least do not go in deep.

Invitation to Public Meetings: Scoping and Environmental Impact Assessment (S&EIA) process for the proposed offshore Production Right and Environmental Authorisation Applications for Block 11B/12B by TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. Ref No. 12/4/013

A joint venture comprising TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. (TEEPSA), QatarEnergy, Canadian Natural Resources International (South Africa) Limited and a South African consortium, MainStreet 1549, held an Exploration Right over Block 11B/12B, located offshore from the Southern Cape Coast, South Africa. TEEPSA appointed WSP Group Africa (Pty) Ltd (WSP) as the independent Environmental Assessment Practitioner to conduct the Scoping and Environmental Impact Assessment and public participation process.

A series of public meetings will be taking place along the Southern Cape Coast from 16 January to 26 January 2023. You are invited to attend the public meetings that form part of the Scoping Phase of the S&EIA.

Crime awareness yields success

The Table View police held a mobile community service centre at Bayside Mall on Saturday 7 January, interacting with the community to highlight safety in the area.

During the interaction, a variety of information on crime awareness was shared, and recruitment for victim support volunteers and police reservists also took place.

"Rulers and whistles were given to children, keyrings to adults and certification of documents and assistance with affidavits were the activities executed with a smile and professionalism. The community expressed their appreciation, seeing the officers at the mall and the children enjoyed touching and trying on some police gear on display," says Table View police spokesperson, Capt Adriana Chandler.

Chandler expressed her appreciation towards the management of Bayside Mall for allowing and supporting the police with this initiative.

"The community's enthusiasm in wanting to be part of making a difference and giving back to the community is...appreciated."

'We are dealing with crime on our own'

Approached for comment, the Langa Community Policing Forum told Vukani it was aware of the incident but could not comment further because it has not been officially informed.

The forum said it was going to meet with the investigation officer or the station commander to get more information.

Langa Safety Patrol is known for catching criminals and parading them on social media and asking them to confess their crime in public – as can be seen on their Facebook page.

However, when approached for comment, Langa Safety Patrol member Ayanda Sturman rubbished the accusation that his organisation was involved in Mr Ndutyana's death or any other person for that matter.

He said it is not the first time that they are accused of killing. "This is the fourth or fifth time we are being accused. We do not kill people. Yes we do assault them to find truth but not to the extent of killing. Those who are saying we kill are people who do not like us. If I tell you, this is just a plot for the group to disband. We are dealing with crime on our own," he said.

Asked about their relationship with the police, Mr Stuurman could only say, they (the police) know the safety patrol are stationed at the stadium.

He insisted that the community of Langa is happy with the job they are doing.

'n Gesamentlike onderneming bestaande uit TotalEnergies EP South Africa B.V. (TEEPSA), QatarEnergy, Canadian Natural Resources International (South Africa) Limited en 'n Suid-Afrikaanse konsortium, MainStreet 1549, het 'n Eksplorasiereg gehou oor Blok 11B/12B wat aflandig van die Suid-Kaapse kus, Suid-Afrika geleë is.
