Notice is hereby given that four aerial applications of Fruit Fly Bait, GF-120 (Reg No. L7331, Act 36 of 1947), will take place between January 2013 and March 2013 in the Elgin/Grabouw, Hex River Valley and Ceres production areas. These applications are parts of the Deciduous Fruit Industries area wide action regarding the control of fruit flies in the above areas.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Fruit flies are a phytosanitary pest and cost producers millions of rands every year. All available methods for control measures are presently being used to fight the pest. Production areas close to residential areas are being hit the hardest by fruit flies because of insufficient control measures in these areas.

The control measures that are being used at present may include the following:

1. Monitoring of fruit fly numbers with traps containing either a pheromone or a controlled release vapour attractant system.
2. Sanitation in orchards and vineyards where fruit flies can hatch, hide or find shelter and food to live on.
3. Regularly applying fruit fly bait in orchards and vineyards.
4. Releasing sterile males on a weekly basis.

GF-120 Fruit Fly Bait is registered for both ground and aerial applications in South Africa and other countries. All the ingredients are natural and GF-120 is used internationally as a very low risk product.

The main ingredients in GF-120 include the following:

Different types of sugar, maize protein and spinosad, an active ingredient obtained from a fermenting process of Saccharopolyspora spinosa which is a natural ground organism.

The potential disadvantage of spinosad for humans and animals is +/- 1.5 times less than normal table salt. When this product is used according to the recommendation, only 0.24g of the active ingredient will be spread over a hectare in scattered drops. If applied as prescribed, there will be minimal risk for animals, human health, birds and any other organisms in the environment, as it will only attract and kill fruit flies.

MORE FEATURES:

Colour – light brown to brown
Moderately sticky
Not corrosive or irritating
Soluble in water and washes off easily
Not prone to staining.

Despite above mentioned features of GF120, residents are requested to adhere to the following:

1. All children should be indoors at time of application.
2. Seek shelter at time of application.
3. Do not hang out any washing during this period.
4. Where possible, vehicles should be under roof (if any drops fall on a vehicle one can easily wash it off with water without leaving any stains).

GF-120 is certified for use by organic farmers

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT THE TARGET AREA FOR AERIAL BAITING IS NOT TOWN AREAS.
