1. PROJECT BACKGROUND

Elengabadi Construction & Projects (Pty) Ltd for prospecting rights for manganese ore and Iron Ore on the covers the Portion 0 and 1 of Lymington 423. Situated in the Northern Cape province of South Africa approximately 35km North-West of Khathu the Extent of the area for prospecting is 3058 hectares.

REGULATION 7(1)(f): DESCRIPTION OF HOW THE MINERAL RESOURCE AND MINERAL DISTRIBUTION OF THE PROSPECTING AREA WILL BE DETERMINED

Desktop study: It will comprise of gathering geological information about the project area. This will also include visiting organizations like the council of geosciences in order to research on what has been done in the region before. This will take about the six (6) months to complete.

Detailed mapping: The method includes the identification of exposed geological structures and lithological outcrops, through aerial photo interpretation, satellite image interpretation and also by walking the farms/folios.

Geophysical Survey: Mainly consist of a comprehensive ground gravity survey to delineate magnetic anomalies and potential target areas. Ground geophysical surveys will be conducted over selected target areas.

Drilling: A proposed drilling programme of boreholes will be used to further define the quality of manganese ore. The core drilling is generally done in this target. The different rock sample will be sent for assay at one of the accredited laboratories.

REGULATION 7(1)(g): A DESCRIPTION OF HOW THE MINERAL RESOURCE AND MINERAL DISTRIBUTION OF THE PROSPECTING AREA WILL BE DETERMINED

DESCRIPTION OF PLANNED NON-INVASIVE ACTIVITIES:

Desktop Studies

It will comprise of gathering geological information about the project area. This will also include visiting organizations like the council of geosciences in order to research on what has been done in the region. This will take about 6 months to complete in phase 1.

Field Mapping

It mainly consists of a comprehensive field mapping, geologist will complete properly selected transverse while recording their geological observations in phase 2.

Geophysical Survey

The very low frequency electromagnetic/radio frequency electromagnetic (VLF-EM/RF-EM) and the ground-penetrating radar (GPR) techniques will be useful at this stage, to reliably locate travertine deposits.

-EM/RF-EM method will detect secondary field to allow acquisition of data about the propagation environment and its heterogeneities: clay-filled structures, karst, paleo-channels, lateral facies variations

DESCRIPTION OF PLANNED INVASIVE ACTIVITIES: (These activities result in land disturbances e.g. sampling, drilling, bulk sampling, etc)

Drilling

This will involve both Reverse circulation and core drilling, the drilling equipment mounted on heavy truck will be used. All means will be done to reduce the environmental damages. Purpose of the drilling activity will be to collect samples to be tested at the laboratory. Drilling is done in phases; as outlined elsewhere, over anomalous target areas, using reconnaissance lines or a grid of 300-inch diameter holes for approximately 80m, but not >100m depending on the size of the blocks. The drill holes will be sent to the laboratory for assay. A total of 60 diamond core boreholes will be drilled during a two-year period, for colour consistency, for defects such as joints, veins and banding. An additional 30 percussion drilling holes will be conducted.

Vertical holes may be drilled in order to test the consistency of the colour and texture of the stone at depth, as well as to identify possible mining cut-offs and horizontal joints, which may affect recovery or assist with mining access.

DESCRIPTION OF PRE-/FEASIBILITY STUDIES (Activities in this section includes but are not limited to: initial, geological modeling, resource determination, possible future funding models, etc). Geological modeling and resource evaluation will be done using the computer Software Supac version 6. This will results in the compilation of the competent person report at the final phase 6 of the programme. Additional drilling could also be conducted at this stage if necessary.

The table below incorporates the information required in respect of Regulations 7(1)(f), 7(1)(h) and 7(1)(i):

4. Baseline Information

Jomela Consulting (Pty) Ltd has identified possible impacts of the proposed project on the receiving environment. Impacts that might arise due to the proposed project can be either negative or positive. Negative impacts are impacts that can degrade or damage the environment while positive impacts are impacts that enhance the environment or contribute to the livelihood of the surrounding community. Potential impacts identified thus far include the following:

- Loss of soil resources and land capabilities through contamination

- Loss of soil resources and land capabilities through physical disturbance
- Physical destruction of biodiversity
- General disturbance of biodiversity
- Pollution of surface water resources
- Contamination of groundwater
- Aquifer dewatering
- Air pollution
- Disturbing noise levels
- Visual impacts
- Impacts on heritage, cultural and paleontological resources
- Land use impacts
- Project-related road use and traffic safety
- Economic impacts
- Inward migration

5. What is Public Participation Process?

The purpose of this document is to:

- Inform stakeholders and Interested and Affected parties (I&AP's) about the proposed project and invite them to participate in the Public Participation Process, Provide a brief background to the proposed project and
- Explain the aim, objectives and key activities:
- A tool to inform stakeholders and Interested and Affected Parties (I&AP's) of a proposed project
- A tool to help integrate the comments of the I&AP's into the relevant phases of a proposed project

What Public Participation is not?

- Not a public relations exercise
- Not a means to satisfy personal grievances – rather to record issues related to the Prospecting public participation and to respond to these

What is expected from the Public?

- The Public is expected to participate and be involved in the decision making by giving relevant comments to the project.

Public Participation Meeting.

- The Draft Basic Assessment Report will be available for comment for 30 days from the 18 of November 2022 to the 11th of January 2022 at the Deben public library. The Public meeting will be held at the Deben Community Hall on the 09th December 2022. All interested and affected parties are welcome to attend. Time 10h00am.

6. How can you get involved?

- By responding (by phone, fax or e-mail) to our invitation and confirm your involvement in the process
- By completing the attached comment sheet/ form and mailing or faxing to Jomela Consulting before the 30 days public participation time period is over.
- By attending meetings that will be held during the process. Should you register as Interested and Affected Parties. You will be invited to attend these meetings. The meetings dates will be sent to Interested and Affected Parties through e- mails, SMSs and advertised in the local newspapers.
- By telephonically contacting consultants if you have a query, comment on the project within 30-days public participation process period.
