SIOC-cdt supports the elderly

On 19 March 2019 SIOC Community Development Trust (SIOC-cdt) supported the Tswelopele Club for the elderly in Olifantshoek which is a non-profit organisation focussing on wellness and awareness of healthy lifestyles through participation in physical training of elderly people.

The support provided included drilling a solar powered borehole, upgrading of the vegetable garden fence, procurement of two water tankers for water storage, kitchen appliances like a chest freezer, a fridge, two micro ovens, a gas stove, crockery and cutlery, all worth approximately R250 000.

The project benefits about 120 club members by ensuring consistent provision of nutritious meals for sustainable wellness of the senior citizens in Ditlouw Olifantshoek and to keep them physically active.

Although the project is meant for the benefit of the elderly citizens, the borehole came in very handy to the broader community of Olifantshoek during the current period of shortage that has seen members of the community drawing potable water from the borehole. That is the real positive impact that SIOC-cdt strives to achieve within its beneficiary communities.

These club members keep themselves active through maintaining their food garden on a daily basis providing them with fresh vegetables for own consumption with the excess being sold to the local community to augment the club's income and sustainability base. The active physical lifestyle of the Tswelopele members is not only limited to food gardening maintenance, they also participate in sports and wellness programmes organised by the Department of Social Development (DSD) from the district to national level, which has a positive impact on their general wellbeing and prolonged life.

SIOC-cdt has substantiated its stated intention of "defining ourselves through actions not words" by investing over R1-billion in socioeconomic and community development projects in its beneficiary communities.

SANBS blood drive campaign

On Tuesday 19 March 2019 the South African National Blood Service hosted a blood drive campaign at the NG church hall Olifantshoek to encourage new and existing donors to donate blood

Less than 1% of South Africans are active blood donors. A unit of blood only lasts 42 days after donation and, for this reason, it is important for blood donors to donate regularly. Donors can give blood as often as every eight weeks.

Every unit of blood can save a minimum of three lives as blood is separated into red blood cells, plasma and platelets.

SANBS aims to collect 3000 units of blood per day to ensure a safe and sufficient blood supply in the health care system.

The total units of blood donated were 18 units which was less than the previous campaign drive of 26 units. The South African National Blood Service therefore encourages people within the John Taolo Gaetsewe district municipality to donate blood and to save many lives.

An SAPS member donates blood during the SANBS blood drive campaign in Olifantshoek.

The Finance Department of Gamagara municipality portrayed the Indian culture.

Gamagara local municipality's officials and councillors celebrated Heritage Day on Thursday 20 September 2018.

Heritage Day is a South African public holiday celebrated annually on 24 September. On this day, South Africans are encouraged to celebrate their culture and the diversity of their beliefs and traditions in the wider context of a nation that belongs to all its people.

At the municipality's event, the Speaker Councillor Dineo Seetile opened and welcomed all officials and stakeholders.

The Mayor Councillor Edwin Hantise then addressed the officials, saying that it is very important to celebrate Heritage Day in order to gain knowledge about our cultural history as Africans.

Participating departments represented different cultures, yet united as one family.

Different local stakeholders were invited to judge the participating departments, ie Mr Joseph Kente, Mrs Dineo Kolberg and Ms Portia, based on the following criteria: The history and background of the culture, decorations, dance, poetry and food.

The Finance Department, who portrayed the Indian culture, was crowned the winner of the competition.

The municipality hopes to extend the competition to local stakeholders in 2019.
