

Stri Varadharaja Perumal Alayam

Narainsamy Temple

984 Inanda Road, Newlands West, 4037 - Telephone: 031 5774266

22 September 2015

Declared National Monument of S.A 1984
NPO No. 120 – 566

To Whom it May Concern

Motivation for the building of the Adjacent Temple
(Worship of the female aspect of Hinduism)

This is to confirm that the existing temple is 122 years old and because of its intricate architecture was declared a National Monument of SA in 1984. In the current temple the main deities only cater for the worship of the male aspect of Hinduism.

There is a large section of the Hindu community who place major emphasis on the female aspect and currently this aspect of worship is not available to the devotees.

Therefore there is a dire need for this facility to be provided for the community and hence the necessity for the building of this new temple which will cater only for the worship of the female aspect of Hinduism (Mother Sakthi)

I hope the above information will assist in the committee as to why there is a need for this facility.

Many thanks

.....
Dr SC Moodley
Trustee