 This permit pertains to the fired-clay lions which were once located at the entrance to the Castle of Good Hope. The lions are currently curated by Iziko at the Castle. We are conducting archaeomagnetic measurements on small loose fragments from the underside on the lions in an effort to determine their origin. It has been suggested that they may either have been fired locally, or have been shipped in from the East. Since there are significant differences in geomagnetic field intensity between the two regions, such analysis would in principle allow us to provenance the lions. For further details please see accompanying letter.
