Surface water: The project is located in the Upper Vaal Water Management Area, within quaternary catchment C22A which has a gross total catchment area of 548 km². The Klip River is located on the western boundary of the mining right application area, with numerous tributaries located within the project area. Various tributaries of the Fleurhof Dam (located in the east of the project area) are also located within the project area. Surface water flow is towards the east, south and west.

Groundwater: The average ground water level within the project area ranges from 30 m to 50 m below ground level. Groundwater yields are expected to be in the range of 2 l/s.

Air quality: The surrounding ambient air quality has been influenced by neighbouring industries, household fuel combustion, vehicle tailpipe emissions, entrained dust and wind erosion from open and exposed areas.

Noise: The greater area is subjected to elevated noise levels. Noise levels in the project area are mainly because of current residential activities, mining and prospecting activities and surrounding industries.

Visual: The natural visual character of the area has been influenced by historical mining, prospecting and residential related activities.

Heritage/cultural and palaeontological resources: Heritage resources likely (but not limited to) to occur within the proposed project area include historical mine infrastructure from the historical period, although these have deteriorated and been vandalised. The palaeontological resources of the site consist of a combination of low, medium and high sensitivity.

Socio-economic: Johannesburg faces a number of economic challenges, including high poverty levels, inequalities in terms of incomes and opportunities and youth unemployment. While Johannesburg is associated with an extensive power and water supply network, there are challenges with supply, particularly in the poorer areas. Johannesburg is the largest single metropolitan contributor to the national economic product. The city's economy is dominated by the finance, business services, wholesale and retail, community, social services and manufacturing sectors.

Land use: Land uses associated with the project area and surrounds include a combination of informal settlements, low cost and high cost residential areas, industrial areas and manufacturing and distribution facilities, historical mine infrastructure (tailings dams, shafts, derelict/abandoned buildings and water dams), powerlines and road infrastructure.

Box 1. What is an Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA)?

A BAR is a good planning and decision-making tool. It is able to identify the environmental impacts of a proposed project, and helps to ensure that the project, over its life cycle, will be environmentally acceptable and integrated into the surrounding environment in a sustainable manner. The BAR process is based on the principle of sustainability and aims to assess the impact on the social, economic and environmental spheres.
