8. Biophysical Environment

8.1 Geology and Soils

According to the 1:250 000 Geological Map, Sheet No 2628 East Rand, the site is underlain by sediments of the Central Rand Group of the Witwatersrand Supergroup. The sediments comprise quartzite, conglomerate and sandy shale of the Turfontein Subgroup.

The hard rock geology is blanketed by a variable thickness of both colluvial and residual soils. Limited exposures of completely weathers quartzite were observed at one locality.

The site is undermined at depth since numerous gold-bearing reefs are present within Turfontein Subgroup and Central Rand Group.

The site is non-dolomitic.

8.2 Vegetation and Landscape Features

The vegetation and landscape is described by Mucina and Rutherford (The Vegetation of South Africa, Lesotho and Swaziland, South African National Biodiversity Institute, Kirstenbosch, August 2006) as Soweto Highveld Grassland, a gently moderate undulating landscape on the Highveld plateau supporting short to medium high, dense tufted grassland dominated by Themeda triandra and accompanied by a variety of other grasses such as Elionurus muticus, Eragrostis racemosa, Heteropogon conturus and Tristachya leucothrix. The vegetation unit is considered endangered and only a few patches are conserved in statutory reserves and a few private nature reserves.

The study area is highly degraded with building rubble and general refuse dumped in many places and is overgrown with weeds. The southern portion of the site has been transformed by subsistence cultivation. The power line servitude runs from west to east through the center of the site.

8.3 Regional Climate

The area is a summer-rainfall region with a mean annual precipitation of 662mm. Cool temperate climate with thermic continentality (high extremes between maximum summer and minimum winter temperatures, frequent occurrence of frost, large thermic diurnal differences especially in autumn and spring).

8.4 Hydrology

A drainage line runs parallel to the power line and continues south of, and parallel to, Sesela Street towards the wetland that flows into the Elsburg wetland and subsequent river system. The drainage line is not considered a wetland due to a lack of wetland requirements.

9. Infrastructure and Services

The proposed development is to be supplied with the necessary infrastructure thereto.

10. Environmental Issues Identified

Environmental impacts will be identified and assessed in terms of their significance. Potential environmental impacts will be identified for the construction and operational period.

Potential construction impacts.

- Drainage line on site;
- Containment of litter and rubble during construction;
- Containment of litter and rubble during removal from site;
- Traffic impact of construction vehicles;
- Job creation during construction period;
- Safety & Security;

Potential operational impacts.

- Colonisation of disturbed areas by alien invasive plant species;
- Compatibility of development with surrounding land uses;
- Job creation during the operational phase;
- Health and safety of residents.
- Noise from adjacent land uses.

Management guidelines will be developed for these issues and incorporated in an Environmental Management Programme.

Interested and Affected Parties are welcome to comment on this list and provide additional anticipated issues and possible impacts which should be addressed.

11. Role of the Interested & Affected Parties (I&AP's)
