

APPENDIX 2: PHOTOGRAPHIC DOCUMENTATION: MSOGWABA

Fig. 1: Entire view of the Msogwaba study area facing east towards the tarred road (Photo taken from the western boundary, the rocky ridge). The study area is an extinct borrow pit, with rocky patches in between.

Fig. 2: A view to the north (Points A, B & C on Map 7 in text). The houses are outside of the study area.

Fig. 3: A view to the south (Points D & E on Map 7, in text). The houses are outside of the study area.

Fig. 4: A general view to the east (points C & D on Map 7 in the text), with the tarred road which is just outside the boundary, visible.

Fig. 5: A general view to the rocky ridge which forms the western boundary of the study area (points G to A on Map 7 in text).

Fig. 6: The steep rocky ridge is clearly visible in this photograph.

Fig. 7: Detail of the steep rocky ridge with a small dam at its foot (see oval).

Fig. 8: Test pits for geotechnical investigation were scrutinized for any possible archaeological remains, but none were found.
