

APPENDIX 4

Photographic evidence: White River Cultural and Creativity Hub: Study area

Fig. 1: Landscape view of the study area: South to North. This photograph was taken in the eastern section. Note one of the geotechnical samples in the foreground.

Fig. 2: View of the western section of the study area: South to North.

Fig. 3: The terrain in the western section was burnt.

Fig. 4: The fallow agricultural lands are clearly visible in the burnt sections.

Fig. 5: Landscape view from the study area: East to West. This view was taken in the southern section.

Fig. 6: The small strip along the R538 consists mainly of rocky outcrops.

Fig. 7: The round concrete and burnt brick dam.

Fig. 8: The farm dam.

Fig. 9: The Pump house.

Fig. 10: The water canal runs from the east through the property to the west.

Fig. 11: The thatch roofed house.

Fig. 12: The modern cottages.

Fig. 13: The ruins of a previous residence. The elements (tiles, casted bricks etc.), in the rubble are all of a modern nature.

Fig. 14: Small granite rocky outcrops are visible on the property.

Fig. 15: Landscape view of the study area from the West to East. This view was taken in the southern section.

Fig. 16: The geotechnical samples such as picture above, were studied for any historical or archaeological material. None was however found.

Fig. 17: Another ruin which was an outbuilding on the farm. The L-shape is clearly visible on the Google image (Appendix 3).