

APPENDIX 1:

ROOIDRAAI: PHOTOGRAPHIC RECORD OF THE RELOCATION OF RDR 8 (ROCK ENGRAVING)

Fig. 15: Before the engraving was removed. Arrow indicates the engraving in situ. (Photo taken from south, facing north)

Fig. 16: After the engraving was removed. Arrow indicates the position. View from south facing north.

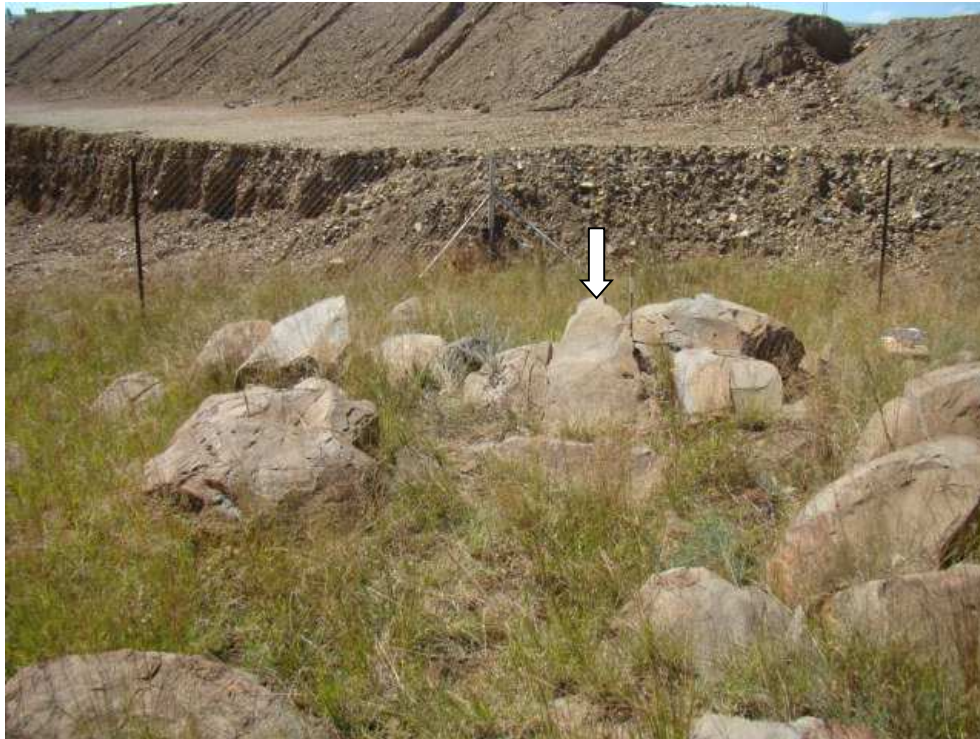

Fig. 17: Before engraving was removed: View from west facing east.

Fig. 18: After the engraving was removed: View from west facing east.

Fig. 19: Before removal of engraving. View from north facing south.

Fig. 20: After removal of the rock engraving. View from north facing south.

Fig. 21: View of the terrain before the engraving was removed. The engraving is situated in front of the excavator.

Fig. 22: The rock engraving was lifted manually.

Fig. 23: A plastic pallet was placed beneath the engraving as a buffer and for support.

Fig. 24: Lowering the rock engraving onto the plastic pallet.

Fig. 25: View of the engraving as it was lying on the plastic pallet.

Fig. 26: The engraving was covered with a blanket for protection.

Fig. 27: A TLB was able to position the scoop below the pallet with the engraving.

Fig. 28: The engraving was moved into the scoop of the TLB.

Fig. 29: The TLB transported the rock engraving to the Lydenburg Museum.

Fig. 30: The engraving on the way to the Lydenburg Museum.

Fig. 31: The TLB and engraving arrived at the Lydenburg Museum.

Fig. 32: The rock engraving was temporarily placed near the entrance of the museum building.